DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 37-47 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The claims recite a method for producing a visual display of an image carried by a planar carrier for commendation, commemoration, information, or award. The method includes the step of laminating together a composite using a laminator with the surface area feeding to a laminating roller covered with a masonite sheet coated with silicon for feeding the protective laminate, the carrier, and an adhesive film, and laminating the composite to a display solid. Aitkens et al (U.S. 5,380,044) discloses a method of making an identification card. The method comprises of providing transparent silicon coated vinyl sheet, i.e. image carrier with the desired image, providing a plastic substrate, and bonding the transparent vinyl sheet to the substrate. (See Abstract and Figure1) The plastic substrate provides the needed rigidity and satisfied the requirement of plastic block, i.e. a solid material with one or more flat sides. Aitkens et al does not disclose using a laminator with the surface area feeding to a laminating roller covered with a masonite sheet coated with silicon for feeding and laminating the transparent silicon coated vinyl sheet, plastic substrate, and the transparent vinyl sheet together. Bisker (U.S. 5,863,632) discloses a decorative photographic tile, which is used to convey information such as a product or logo (Col 2, lines 46-51). The tile is formed by laminating a clear vinyl layer with a pressure sensitive adhesive one side onto a photographic image carrier. Then, a pressure sensitive mounting film with a release backing is laminate onto the photographic image carrier and clear vinyl layer laminate. The resulting laminate can be affixed to the floor or other rigid base, i.e. a display solid. (Col 3, lines 20-48, Col 4, lines 30-34) Bisker does not disclose using a laminator with the surface area feeding to a laminating roller covered with a masonite sheet coated with silicon for feeding and laminating the clear vinyl layer with the pressure sensitive mounting film onto the photographic image carrier together. Muzik (U.S. 4,197,151) discloses a method of mounting a graphic laminate such as a photograph or other sheet like graphic to a flat mounting base for the purpose of visual train aid, domestic and commercial artwork, and other pictorial representations. (See abstract and Col 3, lines 23-30) Muzik does not disclose using a laminator with the surface area feeding to a laminating roller covered with a masonite sheet coated with silicon for feeding and laminating a plastic sheet, an adhesive sheet, image sheet, and a display solid together. Semcuck (U.S. 4,268,345) discloses an apparatus for continuous laminating. The apparatus includes heating shoe adjacent to the laminating rollers and the shoe's surface includes a layer or sheet of Teflon-coated fiberglass. (Col 2, line 44 to Col 3, line 10) Semcuck does not disclose the apparatus include a masonite sheet coated with silicon for feeding and laminating plastic material. A search of the prior art of record did not disclose reference or references in combination with the recited feature.
